3 Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy

3.1 Objective

Bribery is a serious criminal offence in jurisdictions in which Amplus Solar operates, including India where bribery offences can result in the imposition of severe fines and/or custodial sentences, exclusion from tendering for public contracts and severe reputational damage.

Amplus Solar therefore take legal responsibilities very seriously and will uphold all laws relevant to countering bribery and corruption.

The purpose of this policy is to:

- a) Set out the responsibilities of Amplus Solar and its Employees/representatives, in observing and upholding the position on bribery and corruption; and
- b) Provide information and guidance to Employees/representatives on how to recognize and deal with bribery and corruption issues.

This document describes Amplus Solar's policy prohibiting bribery and other improper payments in the conduct of Amplus Solar's business operations and establishes processes to ensure compliance with the Anti-bribery and corruption policy and applicable laws and regulations, in particular:

- India's Anti-Corruption Regulations
 - Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988,
 - Prevention of Bribery of Foreign Public Officials and Officials of Public International Organizations Bill, 2011
 - Prevention of Corruption (Amendment) Bill, 2013
 - Proposed amendments to the Penal Code that would make bribery in the private sector an offence.
 - Other applicable laws, as enacted and/or amended from time to time.
- Applicable Anti-Bribery and Anti-Corruption Laws having Extra-Territorial Jurisdiction
 - United States of America's Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA)
 - United Kingdom Bribery Act, 2010 (UKBA).

3.2 Scope

This Policy applies to Employees of Amplus Solar and to "Amplus Solar Representatives".

Accordingly, the Policy prohibits anyone acting on behalf of Amplus Solar, directly or indirectly, from making or receiving an "Improper Payment." "Improper Payment" means receiving or paying a bribe or giving, offering, accepting kickback payments, or promising to give money or anything else of value to any person, (including but not limited to any customers or potential customers, government official, political party, candidate for political office or any intermediaries, such as agents, attorneys or consultants), in order to improperly influence any act or decision of a person, or to otherwise gain an improper benefit for Amplus Solar.

Compliance with this Policy and these laws is a condition of continued employment or association with Amplus Solar and violations will not be tolerated – any alleged breach will be investigated, and disciplinary action taken as appropriate. Failure by Employees and directors of Amplus to comply with this Policy may expose Amplus Solar to substantial risk and could jeopardize its operations and reputation.

Questions about the Policy or its applicability to circumstances should be directed to the Compliance officer. This policy is subject to no waivers or exceptions because of competitive or commercial demands, industry customs, or other exigencies.

You should also be aware that violations of certain Anti-Corruption Laws may subject an individual Employee or Director to both criminal penalties, including prison sentences, and civil liability.

3.3 Some Facts about FCPA and UKBA

Given the importance and extra-territorial effect of the FCPA and the UKBA, a summary of the applicability of those laws and relevant prohibitions thereunder are set out for this Policy. All the Employees and Directors should read and understand the application of those laws to Amplus Solar.

FCPA

1. The FCPA prohibits offering to pay, paying, promising to pay, or authorizing the payment of money or anything of value to a foreign official (foreign meaning non-US) to influence any act or decision of the foreign official in his or her official capacity or to secure any other improper advantage in order to obtain or retain business.
2. The FCPA is applicable to Amplus as it is involving investments from entities registered in United States of America. Further, the FCPA also applies to “domestic concerns.” A domestic concern is any individual who is a citizen, national, or resident of the United States, or any corporation, partnership, association, joint-stock Amplus Solar, business trust, unincorporated organization, or sole proprietorship that is organized under the laws of the United States or its states, territories, possessions, or commonwealths or that has its principal place of business in the United States. Officers, directors, Employees, agents, or stockholders acting on behalf of a domestic concern, including foreign nationals or companies, are also covered.
3. The FCPA prohibits any U.S. Amplus Solar, or any officer, director, Employee, agent or stockholder acting on behalf of such Amplus Solar, to corruptly pay, offer, promise to pay or authorize the payment of, directly or indirectly through another person or firm, anything of value to a foreign official or Employees of a foreign government who have discretionary authority with the intent to improperly influence the official decision-making of those individuals.
4. In addition to this prohibition on U.S. companies and persons, the FCPA also applies to
 - Foreign companies whose shares are listed on U.S. exchanges,

- Subsidiaries and holding companies of the companies mentioned in (A),
 - Foreign companies and individuals who take any action within the U.S. in furtherance of making a prohibited payment.
 - The FCPA applies to improper payments made directly by above mentioned companies and their officials, directors and Employees, and to improper payments made indirectly through persons (for example, agents, distributors, international representatives, consultants and business partners) who may act for or on behalf of a Amplus Solar where Amplus Solar knows, or has reason to know, such payments will be made.
5. The FCPA is a criminal statute and provides potentially severe criminal sanctions for those who fail to comply.
 6. The FCPA requires companies to which it is applicable to keep accurate and complete books and records and to maintain proper internal accounting controls.
 7. The prohibition under the FCPA is very broad, and covers:
 - cash payments;
 - non-cash “payments”, benefits, and favors; and
 - in certain circumstances, even gifts, entertainment, and hosted travel or training which would otherwise be deemed legitimate business expenditures
 8. In other words, a “willful blindness” to a suspected improper payment or a mere promise of something improper can be the basis for a violation of the FCPA.

UKBA

1. The UKBA applies to UK citizens and individuals ordinarily resident in the UK and to UK companies (but see below for the further the extra-territorial effect of the new corporate offence).
2. The UKBA goes beyond the requirements of the FCPA in that it prohibits bribery not only in the public sector, but also in the private sector, both domestic and foreign... In general, it describes four offences:
 - an offence of active bribery (i.e., giving, promising or offering a bribe);
 - an offence of passive bribery (i.e., requesting, agreeing to receive or accepting a bribe);
 - a specific offence of bribing a foreign public official; and
 - a new corporate offence which applies where a corporate or partnership fails to prevent those performing services on their behalf from paying bribes
3. The recipient of a bribe commits an offence even if he has no intention of committing a criminal act or is unaware that he is in breach of an expectation arising from his position of trust. It does not matter if the person performing the function accepted the bribe with the intention of performing his function or activity improperly. Accordingly, Employees who perform a function or activity (e.g., in the Procurement Department) should exercise extreme caution in the receipt of any advantage from a third party (e.g., a supplier) as such an advantage may be perceived to influence the impartiality of exercising his function or activity.

There is no exemption for facilitating payments - even for U.S. companies - if they “do business” in the U.K.;

3.4 Bribes

Amplus Solar representatives must not engage in any form of bribery of any government official, private party or any third party (such as an agent or third-party intermediary) either directly or indirectly.

3.5. Facilitation payments and kickbacks

Facilitation payments are made for expediting or facilitating the performance of a public official for a routine governmental action, and not to obtain or retain business or any improper business advantage. They are a form of bribery.

Amplus Solar prohibits all its Amplus Solar representatives from making any facilitation payments directly or indirectly on behalf of Amplus Solar.

A kickback is an illegal payment intended as compensation for preferential treatment or any other type of improper services received. The kickback may be money, a gift, credit, or anything of value. Paying or receiving kickbacks is a corrupt practice that interferes with an employee's or a public official's ability to make unbiased decisions. Kickbacks are referred to as a type of bribery and are prohibited at Amplus Solar in entirety. Any act by an Employee involving kickbacks in any manner shall be termed as breach of the Code.

3.6 Business expenditure

Any expenditure for anything of value to be provided to anyone (including but not limited to any customers or potential customers, government official, political party, candidate for political office or any intermediaries, such as agents, attorneys or consultants) must be approved in advance by the Compliance Officer/ CEO.

In all cases, expenditures must be reasonable and directly related to a legitimate business purpose. If the facts and circumstances indicate that a specific expenditure could be construed as a prohibited payment or would create an appearance of impropriety, the expenditure shall be prohibited.

3.6.1. Gifts

This policy does not prohibit normal, reasonable, appropriate, modest and bona fide corporate hospitality (given and received) to or from third parties if its purpose is to improve Amplus Solar's image, present products and services, or establish cordial relations.

As per the policy, giving or receiving of gifts or favors to or from anyone (including but not limited to any customers or potential customers, government official, political party, candidate for political office or any vendor or intermediaries, such as agents, attorneys or consultants) in an effort to sell products or services or to influence business, labour or governmental decision-making is strictly prohibited.

In the context of conduct between other than government officials/private parties, the offering, giving, receiving or soliciting of corporate hospitality, Amplus Solar merchandise¹ and gifts that are customary² by internationally accepted industry standards shall not constitute corrupt practices unless the action violates applicable law.

Prior approval from Compliance officer and head of department of such Employee should be sought before offering or giving any customary gift to:

- (i) Government officials.
- (ii) Other than government officials (private parties), if the value of the gift exceeds INR 1,000.

In case gifts are given to any one (including government officials), they should be recorded properly and accurately in Amplus Solar's books.

Amplus Solar Employees must declare and keep a written record of all hospitality or gifts accepted or offered, which will be subject to Compliance officer and authorized approver's review.

3.7. Travel and Lodging on behalf of anyone

In certain circumstance where Amplus Solar may be required to pay reasonable travel and lodging expenses, for execution or performance of a contract or under applicable law or under the order from a judicial authority, (including airfare, hotel accommodations, meals and other incidentals) for on behalf of anyone (who may or may not be a Government Official).

The execution or performance of a contract for example, reasonable expenses may include trips to a Amplus Solar project site to observe Amplus Solar's operations, or travel expenses of police officers traveling beyond their usual jurisdiction to investigate a theft of Amplus Solar property.

Key policies for payments of travel and lodging related to government official will include following:

- The government agency, government department, or state-owned enterprise must select the invitees and not Amplus Solar.
- The government agency, government department, or state-owned enterprise must approve the proposed visit and itinerary.
- Tickets, hotel accommodation and other travel-related expenses need to be reasonable and commensurate with Amplus Solar's travel policies. Amplus Solar will directly pay airlines and hotels on behalf of the government official and will not reimburse any per diem to the government official. However, Amplus Solar can also make direct payment for per diem expenses as per the defined limits to respective government department for government official.

² Customary gifts include gifts on festivals like Diwali, Christmas etc.

- Payment of hotel accommodations or other forms of lodging shall not include long-distance telephone calls, mini-bar usage, television pay-per-view services, or any other additional amenity not included in the base price of the hotel accommodation or lodging.
- Travel will only be for the government official and not for his/ her family members or close business associates.
- Amplus Solar will not bear the costs related to travel to tourist destinations entertainment, sightseeing excursions or other leisure activities.
- Expenditures for meals and incidentals must be in accordance with Amplus Solar's travel policies.

In addition to any respective project site/department approvals that may be required, all proposed payments or reimbursements for travel expenses for anyone (including but not limited to any customers or potential customers, government official, political party, candidate for political office or any intermediaries, such as agents, attorneys or consultants) must be approved by the Compliance officer/CEO/authorized approver before the travel occurs.

Hosting a customer or potential customer, whether in-country or outside of his/her home country, poses a risk of violating certain Anti-Corruption Laws, particularly the FCPA and the UKBA, as it may be perceived as a sight-seeing trip offered to the customer or potential customer. It is, therefore, Amplus Solar's policy to discourage these types of hosting and to limit them to only those situations where explicitly required and falling within the parameters of Amplus Solar's Travel policy.

Potential Risk Scenarios- “Red Flags”

The following is a list of possible red flags that may arise during the course of an employment with Amplus Solar and which may raise concerns under various anti-bribery and anticorruption laws. The list is not intended to be exhaustive and is for illustrative purposes only.

- a) Being aware that a third party engages in, or has been accused of engaging in, improper business practices;
- b) Learning that a third party has a reputation for paying bribes, or requiring that bribes are paid to them, or has a reputation for having a “special relationship” with government officials;

- d) A third-party request payment in cash and/or refuses to sign a formal commission or fee agreement, or to provide an invoice or receipt for a payment made;
- e) A third-party request that payment is made to a country or geographic location different from where the third party resides or conduct business;
- f) A third party requests an unexpected additional fee or commission to facilitate a service;
- g) A third party demands lavish entertainment or gifts before commencing or continuing contractual negotiations or provision of services;
- h) A third-party request that payment is made to “overlook” potential legal violations;

- Bribing a foreign official, you arrange for the business to pay an additional payment to a foreign official to speed up an administrative process, such as clearing computer hardware through customs. The offence of bribing a foreign public official has been committed as soon as the offer is made. This is because it is made to gain a business advantage for us. Amplus Solar may also be found to have committed an offence.

Third Party Due Diligence procedures

Identification of TPI

Each department/ project site/ business unit must identify such TPIs for their operations. Once the department/ project site/ business unit identifies a potential TPI the department must provide the intermediary with the due diligence questionnaire for completion.

The due diligence questionnaire requires the intermediary to provide detailed information regarding its business background and capabilities. It is the responsibility of the respective department to obtain a complete questionnaire and provide the completed questionnaire to Compliance Officer.

The due diligence must take place before the intermediary is retained and must be updated when extending or renewing an intermediary's contract. In case of an emergency, where an intermediary commences the work prior to completion of the due diligence and approval by Compliance Officer, department/ project site/ business head should provide reasons in writing and due diligence should be completed within 30 days.

The interim appointment agreement / letter issued to such intermediaries should contain the following verbiage "The terms and conditions set out in this letter are in all respects subject to the satisfactory completion of due diligence evaluation procedures."

In case such intermediary continues to work even after 30 days, without due diligence, the matter shall be reported by the department/ project site/ business head without fail to Compliance Officer.

As a policy, no department/ project site/ business unit shall take any further action with respect to an applicant intermediary until Compliance Officer has provided the respective department/ project site/ business unit with the results of the due diligence and whether the intermediary, in his opinion, should be accepted or rejected based on the factual data made available to him.

TPI Due Diligence

Prior to conducting due diligence, a detailed due diligence questionnaire must be completed for all existing and new intermediaries identified. Due diligence is the process of identifying facts about the company and its promoters who may expose Amplus Solar to a risk and involves assembling substantial information about intermediaries.

Due diligence will seek to identify sanctioned parties, state-owned companies, Government Officials, and other “politically-exposed persons” (“PEP”) or entities. Additionally, the media review will seek to identify potentially adverse information with respect to allegations of corruption, collusion, other illegal activities, or other matters that have a significant impact on reputation.

The Compliance Officer may conduct internet-based research and may use the following sources for conducting due diligence:

- Watch out Investors.
- Ministry of Corporate Affairs.
- Securities and Exchange Board of India.
- Court Nic.
- Credit Information Bureau of India Limited.
- Central Board of Excise and Customs websites,
- ISI Emerging Markets.
- Other global media sources, including, but not limited to, India media sources.

The Compliance Officer may appoint a service provider to conduct the due diligence review for intermediaries. The Service Provider may be an internal group, an outside auditing firm, or outside counsel etc. and will conduct the risk-based due diligence as per instructions from the Compliance Officer of Amplus Solar.

The due diligence procedures could include, but is not limited to the following:

Due Diligence Reports

The Compliance Officer or such service provider/ consulting firm appointed will provide a written report of the screening results explaining its findings and the reasons for any concerns raised, including any negative information or red flags upon receipt of the due diligence conducted. The report will also include any inconsistencies between the information submitted in the due diligence questionnaire and information discovered in the diligence process. It is the responsibility of the Compliance Officer to review and assess the screening results provided by such third party/ consulting firm.

Common red flags associated with third parties include:

- Excessive commissions to third-party agents or consultants.
- Unreasonably large discounts to third-party distributors.
- Third-party "consulting agreements" that include only vaguely described services.
- The third-party consultant is in a different line of business than that for which it has been engaged.
- The third party is related to or closely associated with the foreign official.
- The third party became part of the transaction at the express request or insistence of the foreign official.
- The third party is merely a shell company incorporated in an offshore jurisdiction; and the third-party requests payment to offshore bank accounts.

Following analysis of the screening results the Compliance Officer will take one of the following actions:

- Report to the respective department that no negative information was found and approve the intermediary; or
- Report to the respective department that negative information was found, and

- Reject the Intermediary for appointment, or
- Approve the intermediary and provide written explanation for the reasons for acceptance of intermediary, subject to ratification of such appointment by the Board of Directors in the next board meeting.

Contracts/ agreements with TPIs

- All contracts, without exception, must be written detailing the scope of work, legally vetted and executed with the TPI:
- Informing it of Amplus Solar's anti-corruption policies and committing it not to engage in any corrupt practice;

- Providing that the Third Party's remuneration shall not be paid in cash and shall only be paid in (i) the country of incorporation of the Third Party, (ii) the country where its headquarters are located, (iii) its country of residence or (iv) the country where the mission is executed

In case a TPI refuses to sign-off on the anti-corruption verbiage or recommends changes, the TPI should not be appointed or retained to work with Amplus Solar. In case the TPI requests for some minor changes in the anti-corruption verbiage, Compliance Officer can agree to the same.

13 Policy on Personal Relationships at the Workplace

13.1 Introduction

Amplus Group (“Amplus”) is committed to creating a work environment that is conducive to employee and organizational wellbeing. Amplus believes in transacting business in an ethical manner that adheres to the highest standards of corporate governance. To achieve these objectives, it is important for employees to maintain clear boundaries between personal and business interactions.

Amplus encourages an open and congenial working atmosphere for all its employees. This policy does not prevent friendships or romantic relationships between employees. However, through this policy, employees are expected to respect privacy, establish and acknowledge boundaries in conducting relationships during working hours and within the organization’s workplaces.

In order to ensure freedom from bias and even perceived bias, this policy applies more stringent terms on employees who hold supervisory or managerial roles or exercise authority over the terms and conditions of employment of other employees. Such individuals are expected to be cognizant of their responsibilities and to be role models, as they may have access to sensitive information and may be able to affect the employment of individuals in positions subordinate to their authority.

This policy provides guidelines for all employees to follow when they are romantically involved with another employee. Amplus does not wish to place undue restrictions on employees, but it is important to ensure that everybody respects the decorum of the workplace.

Amplus commits to creating a positive working atmosphere by:

- Enforcing this policy equally to all employees, including HR and senior management;
- Treating all employees equally when taking disciplinary action;
- Prohibiting victimization or retaliation of any kind, and
- Examining each case on its own merits, in keeping with principles of natural justice, and considering all aspects and perspectives before arriving at decisions.

13.2. Scope, Applicability & Definitions

This policy applies to all Amplus employees regardless of gender or sexual orientation.

1. In this policy, the term “employee” refers to all persons employed by Amplus, whether in the capacity of an employee, probationer, trainee, or fixed term staff, for any work on a regular, temporary, ad hoc, or daily wage basis either directly or through an agent, including a contractor, whether for remuneration or not, or working on a voluntary basis or otherwise, whether the term of employment are express or implied and includes a co-worker, a contract worker, and also includes members of the Management & the Board of Amplus.

2. In the context of this policy, “personal relationship” includes consensual romantic relationships and sexual relations. It is hereby clarified that any form of non-consensual sexual activity may amount to a criminal offence and is prohibited by the law. Amplus reserves the right to seek all appropriate measures against any employee found in violation of this provision.

13.3. General Guidelines

1. Employees in a personal relationship with each other are expected to keep personal issues and discussions out of the workplace and to be productive and focused as always. During working hours and at the workplace, employees are expected to conduct themselves in a professional manner that does not interfere with others or with overall productivity.
2. During non-working time, such as lunches, breaks, and before and after working hours, employees engaging in personal exchanges are expected to maintain a professional demeanor to avoid offending other workers or putting others in an uncomfortable position.
3. While employee relationships are a matter of personal choice and freedom, the workplace is still a professional setting. Amplus expects all employees to treat each other with respect and avoid hindering other people’s work. Employees are expected to refrain from doing anything that may embarrass or expose other employees to gossip or unwarranted comments, and to always respect each other’s time and choices.
4. Employees are strictly prohibited from engaging in physical contact that would in any way be deemed inappropriate at the workplace while on Amplus premises, or while transacting business on behalf of Amplus, at any location, whether during working hours or not. In particular, the following behavior, amongst others, is prohibited and will attract disciplinary action:
5. Arguing in the workplace, especially about the personal relationship or in a personal capacity
6. Any form of public display of affection, especially physical, or through overt remarks or gestures
7. Boasting about or discussing a personal relationship in the presence of other employees
8. Employees who allow personal relationships with other employees to adversely affect the work environment may be subject to disciplinary action.
9. Failure to change behavior and maintain expected work responsibilities is viewed as a serious violation of this policy and may attract disciplinary action, including termination of employment.
10. Employee off-duty conduct is generally regarded as private, if such conduct does not create problems within the workplace.
11. Unwanted advances and multiple requests to pursue a personal relationship may qualify as sexual harassment. Amplus has a zero-tolerance policy towards sexual harassment and all complaints against sexual harassment shall be addressed in keeping with the Amplus Prevention of Sexual Harassment Policy.
12. For example, an employee who keeps flirting with their colleague who does not respond favorably to such behavior may be in violation of the Amplus Prevention of Sexual Harassment Policy. Employees can access the Amplus Prevention of Sexual Harassment Policy or speak to any member of the Amplus Internal Committee (“IC”) for further information.

13.4. Personal Relationships Involving Managers

1. To avoid accusations of favoritism and abuse of authority, Amplus as an organization discourages tendencies of managers or supervisors to date their team members or those who report to their team members (directly or indirectly).
2. In addition to clauses 1 hereinabove, any supervisor, manager, executive or other Amplus official in a sensitive or influential position already in a personal relationship with another employee, must disclose the existence of such a personal relationship at amplusforyou@amplussolar.com. In such instances, the HR/ Amplus Compliance Team and Management will determine whether a conflict of interest exists and shall recommend an appropriate course of action, including change of a role or reporting structure, or any other action that avoids bias or the perception of bias, and enables a healthy, transparent working atmosphere at the workplace.
3. All such information reported to amplusforyou@amplussolar.com will remain strictly confidential. It is pertinent to mention that the above E-mail ID only has the Amplus HR and Compliance team members on it. This requirement assists all parties, as it will enable HR to discreetly enable a change in reporting structure to avoid bias or conflict of interest if parties belong to a direct line of reporting, as may be required. Any breach of confidentiality of this provision will attract strict disciplinary action.
4. In instances when an employee is promoted or transferred from another department, they may find themselves managing another employee with whom they may have previously shared a personal relationship. In such instances, it is the duty of the manager to provide information of such previous personal relationship at amplusforyou@amplussolar.com to ensure transparency.
5. While managing an employee with whom a manager had a previous personal relationship, it is imperative for the manager to ensure that their behavior is free from bias, favoritism, and retaliation. Managers are expected to document all information, especially such information that is necessary for performance review/ appraisal and to maintain a strictly fair, just and professional manner at all times.

13.5. Marital Relationships

1. The following guidelines address employees who are already married to or have a domestic partner or other long-term personal relationship with another employee.
2. Employees in a marital relationship with each other may not be in a direct reporting structure or work in the same team at Amplus.
3. It is prohibited for managers to consider the candidature of their spouses or partners while hiring for their teams. However, managers may refer their spouses or partners to any other position within Amplus in keeping with the Amplus Employee Referral Policy as mentioned in the Employee Handbook. It is hereby clarified that such candidates will be disqualified and ineligible for employment with Amplus if any bias or favoritism or undue interference with the hiring process, carried out by such a manager, is established at any time. In addition to such disqualification, Amplus reserves the right to take appropriate action against all persons involved in such violation of a free and fair hiring process.

4. At all times, employees in a marital relationship are expected to maintain the dignity and decorum of the workplace while on Amplus premises or while transacting business on behalf of Amplus at any location, whether during working hours or not. In particular, the following behavior is prohibited and will attract disciplinary action.
 - Arguing in the workplace, especially about the marital relationship
 - Any form of public display of affection, especially physical or through overt remarks or gestures
 - Using the marital relationship to influence the terms of employment or working conditions or cause any other preferential or detrimental effect to the workplace, whether for the spouse or any other employee.
5. It is hereby clarified that taking undue advantage of Amplus policies, including but not limited to the Amplus Prevention of Sexual Harassment Policy, to settle scores; or cause distress to spouses; or initiate or attempt to influence ongoing legal domestic proceedings; or act in any other manner detrimental to the Amplus workplace, will be considered as a serious violation of this policy. Amplus reserves the right to terminate an employee who has violated this provision and to take appropriate legal action, as may be required.

13.6. Addressing Conflict of Interest

A “conflict of interest” refers to a situation where the interests of an employee, or a potential employee, or the organization, may be incompatible with those of another employee. This potentially poses material risks to all parties and may adversely affect the Amplus workplace. While determining instances of conflict of interest, it is imperative to bear in mind the spirit of this policy and act in the best interest of the greater good of Amplus and its employees.

When a conflict-of-interest or potential risk is identified due to a personal relationship between employees, Amplus will work with the employees involved to consider options for resolving the problem. In such instances, it may first be decided that the parties no longer work together on matters where one is able to influence the other or act for the other. Matters such as hiring, firing, promotions, performance management, compensation decisions and financial transactions are examples of situations that may require reallocation of duties to avoid any actual or perceived reward or disadvantage. In some cases, other measures may be necessary, such as transfer of one or both parties to other positions or departments. If one or both parties refuse to accept a reasonable solution, such refusal will be deemed a voluntary resignation.

Failure to cooperate with Amplus to resolve a conflict or problem caused by a personal relationship between employees in a mutually agreeable manner may attract disciplinary action up to, and including, termination.

13.7. Miscellaneous

This policy will always be interpreted in keeping with relevant legal provisions and principles of natural justice.

Amplus reserves the right to update, review and alter this policy at any point of time. All such alterations will be intimated to all employees as per process. 3. For clarifications

24 Amplus Social Media Guidelines for Employees

At Amplus, we value open dialogue; therefore, we encourage you to share ideas and enthusiasm with the world. It is entirely up to you whether you want to accomplish this via taking part in a blog, wiki, online social network, or any other type of online publication or conversation.

However, these new communication channels are altering how we speak to one another and our clients, partners, and target audiences.

We have developed a few guidelines to provide helpful and practical guidance for you when using the internet as a recognizable employee of Amplus Solar to prevent any issues or misunderstandings.

- Continually educate yourself and conform to the Policy Manuals and the Amplus/PETRONAS/GENTARI Code of Conduct.
- AVOID, but if discussing Amplus or brand-related issues on the internet, you must reveal yourself by name and, if applicable, your job at Amplus. Please note that only designated personnel in this organization are official spokespersons for the organization or its brands and if you are not one of them, you must clearly indicate that you are speaking for yourself and not for the organization. You can use a disclaimer like "The writings on this blog are my own and do not necessarily represent the stance, strategy or ideas of Amplus / PETRONAS / GENTARI and its brands". Please always write in the first person and do not use your corporate email address for personal communications. Remember that even anonymous Wikipedia postings can be tracked down to the organization.
- You are personally accountable for any content you post on blogs, wikis, or other forms of user-generated media. Keep in mind that the internet always remembers. This implies that everything you upload will be exposed to the whole globe for an extremely long period. Common sense is quite important in this situation. Review everything you're going to post if it makes you even the least bit uneasy. If you are still unclear about something relating to Amplus and its brands, contact your manager or Corporate Communications Team (Contact Details shared at the end of the document).
- It is unacceptable that you educate the rest of the world about information available on an office network. If an item contains the phrase "for internal use only," that is exactly what it implies, and it should not be transmitted to anybody whom Amplus/PETRONAS/GENTARI does not employ. There will be no exceptions. Messages from our CEO to all workers are not intended for publication. If we as an organization want a newspaper to know anything, our Corporate Communications team would contact them and tell them.
- It is completely OK to discuss your work and engage in community discourse (see # 2), however, it is not acceptable to discuss organization's strategic plans or information on internal documents before its formal introduction or circulation. You have signed a confidentiality agreement and you must abide by it. If the decision on secrets or other topics mentioned is difficult, please consult your management before publishing or forwarding. Please use the information given to you properly.
- Do not comment on work-related legal concerns unless you are an official representative for Amplus or one of its brands. Furthermore, discussing sales, upcoming goods, price decisions, unannounced financial data, or similar topics will land you, the Organization, or both in a difficult situation. Do not discuss financial subjects and making forecasts about future performance at any costs.

- Be mindful of your audience. Use no derogatory terms, personal attacks, indecency, or any other behaviour that would be unacceptable in the Amplus workplace. You should also show respect for individuals' privacy and avoid issues that might be regarded offensive or controversial (like religion or politics). If you are an Amplus representative in a virtual environment, please dress and conduct appropriately. We all value respect.
- Consider the implications. Please keep in mind that using your public voice to destroy or shame your employer, clients, co-workers, or even yourself is not acceptable - or very sensible.
- Have you posted something that was simply false? Be the first to correct your own error. If you choose to change a prior post on your blog, make it obvious that you have done so.
- Totally respect copyrights. Don't use if it is not yours. It is quite easy. It is that individual's choice, not yours, to share his or her stuff with the world. Please confirm with the owner before uploading someone else's work.
- Mention or refer clients, partners, or suppliers only with their permission. When you do make a reference, try to connect back to the original source.
- Please note that everyone will associate you with the organization you work for. Kindly make sure that your Facebook, LinkedIn, and other social profiles and related material are consistent with how you want to be seen by customers and co-workers.
- Even if you act with good intent, keep in mind that whatever you say about the organization can potentially harm the organization's reputation. This applies to all internal media, such as any newsletters or e-mailers you send. When you distribute information on the organization's behalf, you are upholding the Organization's image. Please be responsible. If you are unsure, please contact the Corporate Communications Team or your manager before clicking the submit button.
- There are circumstances like customer complaints or PR crises, we request you to refrain from posting any comments on such threads, we have designated experts to take care of such incidents.
